THE RUSSIAN LOAN. The following important letter on the above subject appears in the London Daily News. Sir.-In April, 1862, Mesers. Rothschilds inreduced in London a Russian 5 per cent. Loan for £15,000,000 sterling at the price of 94. Under the signature affixed to this letter I wrote in y ar columns on its issue to warn the public ragainst embarking their money in the new creations of a State notoriously embarrassed. and continually borrowing on terms projudicial to previous lenders. Each loan, I pointed out, "after a time falls below the price of issue." The loan in question was practically a failure in this country. The press, with one intelligible exception, the supporter of the present operation, fairly opposed it on political as well as financial grounds. The Stock Exchange received it with disfavour, and the public with apathy. My anticipations were jus-tified by results. The difficulties of the Russian Treasury increased. The paper currency, amounting in 1862 to £120,000,000 sterling, rested on no adequate basis of specie. The funded and unfunded debt of the Empire had risen from £124,000,000 (in round figures) in 1853 to £231,000,000 in 1859—chiefly in consequence of the Crimean war. In 1864 a fresh 5 per cent. loan of £6,000,000 sterling was announced at the price of 85, or 9 per cent, below. the issue price of that of 1862. In 1886, £6,000,000 more 5 per cent, stock were offered Government obliged Europe with a liberal Hongkong Gas Company's Shares $60 per creation of £12,000,000 sterling, again a 5 per cent stock, at the price of 80. Besides these direct loans, Russia has borrowed between 1867 and 1869, £35,915,280, nominally for railway purposes, but it is well understood that a large proportion of these funds was employed for State purposes—how much on military expenditure remains unknown. I have before me a classified statement showing that the Russian Government has since 1850, borrowed in all in the different markets of Europe within a fraction of £105,000,000 sterling. Some small portion of this has been repaid by the operation of the sinking funds; but one thing is clear, that Russia will absorb annually quite as much as the money markets of Europe will be willing to supply. And for what are these enormous sums required? For monster armaments, intended at a future time; to be directed against this country. The policy of the Czare is traditional and unswerving: a footing in our Indian Empire, and Constantinople as the long-coveted jewel of the Mus-covite Crown. Surely the British public must have learnt something from the loving tele-grams recently published between the Emperor- White Sugar, 150 picule, at King of Germany and the Emperor Alexander. lung to Hongkong merchant, The latter has, indeed, done good service to his Black Pepper, 50 bags, at $11.31, by Hung-Prussian relative, but is it not obvious that fung to travelling merchant. some consideration must have given, or rather promised for the valuable aid which has so insterially promoted Prussia's conquests and the humiliation of France? Who acquainted with foreign politics doubts the PATENT SLIP DOCK existence of a secret treaty between these two military despots? I don't for an instant, if Mr. Gladstone does; but his blindness in foreign affairs is common talk, while any comparison between Lord Granville as a diplo-

Patriotism. I fear, weights very lightly in the moral scale against money gain. It is however, to the credit of the Stock Exchangea body, ever ready to seize opportunities of profit—that they have protested against this daring operation of the Russian Covernment. They have well pointed out that, " to supply Russia with means which might be used for aggressive purposes is most unpatriotic, and until the Conference-bas concluded its sittings in every way to be condemned "-a rebuke for Messrs, Rothschild which they would do well to keep in mind. Some day they may have the inclancholy satisfaction of proving that they have been chiefly instrumental in embling the Russian Government to renew a struggle with this country for accerdancy in the East. In such an event Prussia would probably repay the debt which the pions Kaiser Wilhelm has so affectionately acknowledged to the Czar. We might be left almost alone to defend our rights and Treaty obligations. Then, when our countrymen perished by thousands as in the recent war, the thought would come that by means, of these louns the weapons were bought which ensured their destruction, if not our defeat. One point more. So long as countries like Russia, Turkey, and Egypt can continue to borrow, so long will the dividends on their old and new creations be regularly met, but should a European configration arise their power to fulfil their engagements would soon be paralysed. More money would be im-mediately required, and the difficulty of dealing with the foreign creditor would become almost inaurmountable. Certainly, if a war of long duration were to ensure. True, the English, as a nation, are margellously rich; but the suffering of individuals, if only from a temporary snapension of dividends, would be wide aprend and severe. It is well, therefore, for the thousands upon whom patriotic sentiments would exercise no influence to remember that, in foreign stocks especially, a high rate of interest involves no inferior security; further, that history tenches that the one grand aim of the Russian Government has been the acquisition of military strength for aggressive puposes. That aim will be stendily pursued, linked with the undying hope of elevating the Empire

INGLIBH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, by the Rev. W. LOBSOHEID, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

TAOH soope and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the auccess of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond n the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those heretofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a refurence to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
